President's Message

(Todd J. Schmitz)

In my office we call it the "fall crush", the time of year when you simultaneously love and hate this profession of ours. On the one hand, you never feel more vital to the work of the university, and hopefully, appreciated. Conversely, the "fall crush" forces you to deal with unrealistic expectations (deadlines), and you are often challenged by a "knowledge or information" gap between you and the people you serve. It's on this latter point that I want to ask for your reflection and input.

What can INAIR do to be a better resource for information or source for training and development? In particular, I believe that we can and should develop our website to be more of a warehouse/repository for data on Indiana higher education. To that end, are there requests made of you that could be addressed through data available in the "members only" section of the website? For example, would timelier statewide enrollment data be useful?

Similarly, are there professional development topics that would be worthwhile to address for you or your office? We have a great resource in our membership and I think we can, and should be tapping that knowledge base. All we need is to hear your ideas.

So, when the "fall crush" starts to subside, take a few minutes and think about what resources or professional development could enhance your professional work and send those ideas to me (schmitz@indiana.edu). The executive committee would love to be able to report at the annual conference about progress made toward making INAIR a more valuable resource for all of us.

Until that time, keep working smart, and we'll look forward to gathering at our annual conference in the spring.

Todd J. Schmitz, INAIR President

Vice President's Message

(Patty McClintock)

2009 INAIR Annual Forum

Mark your calendars now for March 26th and 27th to attend the 2009 INAIR Annual Forum at the Hilton Garden Inn Indianapolis Downtown. The Hilton Garden Inn is adjacent to Circle Center Mall and Monument Circle, is less than one mile from the Indiana State Museum and the Indianapolis Zoo and is within walking distance of some of the best restaurants and nightlife that Indianapolis has to offer. We will be following a slightly different forum schedule this year, the main differences being an increased presence of vendors and replacing the usual evening of dinner and music with a cocktail reception followed by dinner and evening entertainment on your own. Want dinner and a show? No problem – the Indiana Repertory Theatre and the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra both have performances scheduled. Feel like dancing the night away? There are 10 nightclubs within walking distance. Maybe you'd like to catch the game and a burger – there are eight sports bars nearby. Want to experience the adrenaline of catching a game in person? The Pacers host the Miami Heat on Wednesday evening. Does a quiet, relaxing dinner with colleagues sound like your idea of a good time? There are 40 (count'em, 40) restaurants within a one-mile radius, from Asian to Italian, American to Mediterranean. If you can't find something to eat, you're just not hungry. All of this and more within a mile of the hotel!

The theme is “Accountability, Assessment, and Accreditation”, which should allow for a wide range of presentations addressing topics of interest to everyone. Watch for the Call for Proposals and registration materials that will be available in the next few months. Please consider presenting a paper	research in action

panel discussion	birds of a feather
demonstration	poster session
scholarly research	table topic
pre-forum workshop

or something completely different at this year's forum. Here's a chance to share your expertise and encourage your colleagues to do the same. Think about asking some of your colleagues to attend; most IR offices work closely with their Registrar, Admissions, and Information Technology offices, to name a few. The official call for proposals will begin in November and the target date for submission is Monday, January 5th. The conference will provide an opportunity to discuss many of the issues we all face, including assessment practices, calls for increased accountability, and accreditation needs.

I'll see you at the Forum!

Patty McClintock, INAIR Vice President
